Owners Petition Business Use For 19 Residence Lots

Yesterday afternoon planning commissioners established a zone of interest for rezoning residence property to C-1-L limited commercial use in two blocks at the western edge of the business district.

Owners of all but one residential lot in the block bounded by Sixth, Monte Verde, Fifth and Lincoln have requested that their land be rezoned for apartments, hotels, motels and uses incidental to these developments. Owners of all but one lot have requested similar rezoning for a strip of lots north of Sixth to one lot south of Fifth, fronting on Monte Verde and adjacent to existing C-1-L zoning on the south.

The zone of interest established yesterday by the planning commission extends three lots south of Ocean Avenue in the blocks bounded by Casanova Street and Dolores Street to Fourth Avenue on the north between Camino Real and Dolores Street. The eastern boundary of the zone of interest is Dolores Street, Fourth to three lots below Ocean. The western boundary jogs from three lots south of Ocean at Casanova down

Ondrejka, Hairston Lead Honor Orchestra, Choir In Concert Here Saturday

The first Honor Orchestra and Honor Choir concert in Carmel will be on Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset School auditorium, presented by the central coast section of the California Music Educators Association. Previously music students from the 11 high schools in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties have come here for festivals only.

Carmel Adult School Second Semester Begins On Monday

The Carmel Adult School will start its second semester on Monday. New students will be accepted in all classes where the student can meet the level of the class. Those who are interested in second semester shorthand should be able to take dictation at 50-60 words per minute, according to Charles Dawson, evening school principal.

There are no beginning classes in French, Spanish or Russian. Interested persons with some background in these subjects should visit the second semester classes before registering, Mr. Dawson suggests.

Classes in music appreciation and home gardening will be started if there is sufficient interest. One may pre-register by phoning the Carmel Adult School, MA 4-1821 evenings from 7:00-10:00 o'clock Monday through Thursdays.

The Teachers of Tomorrow of the Carmel High School, a student organization under the supervision of Miss Nellie Ryder, will conduct the English for New Americans class which will meet in Room 15 at the high school on Wednesdays from 7:00-9:00 o'clock.

Students must register when they come to class; attend the first

Ronald Ondrejka, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, will be guest conductor for the 75-member Honor Orchestra. He is a former public school music student who later attended the Eastman School of Music. He conducted the Seventh Army Symphony in Europe and before coming to Carmel was assistant conductor of the Radio City Music Hall Orchestra in New York. In addition to conducting the Monterey County Symphony, Mr. Ondrejka is studying with Dr. Alfred Lunt, director of the Pasadena Symphony, on a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

Jester Hairston will lead the 160-voice chorus. This summer he will conduct festivals in Russia at the request of our government-sponsored cultural exchange program. He is a conductor, composer, film, radio and television actor and in 1943 organized his own choir in Hollywood.

The Honor Orchestra will play Passacaglia and Fughetta, Harold Johnson; Symphony for Young Orchestras, John Verral; Moods Americana, Gerald Humel; The Pearl Fishers, Bizet-Reibold; Prince Igor, Borodin-Reibold; and Midnight Beguine, Clare Grindman.

The Honor Choir will sing Gloria In Excelsis, Mozart-Brooks; Alleluia! Christ Is Risen, Kopoyoff-Paul; The Peasant And His Oxen, Smith-Aschenbrenner; and the following three numbers composed by

Hudson Says No To Riley Ranch College Access

Gibson Canyon for St. John's College struck a snag Friday morning, when Linden Leavitt and Dr. Richard Weigle, president of St. John's, called on Thomson J. Hudson.

They asked Hudson if his family would be willing to grant a right of way across their property to gain access to the Gibson Canyon site in Carmel Highlands.

Business Zoning Sought For 29 More Valley Mouth Acres

The County Planning Commission will receive a request on Tuesday from Sam Smith, developer of Carmel Rancho shopping center, for precise zoning of approximately 29 acres at the gateway to the Valley.

Carmel Rancho Inc. is now constructing the first of several planned units on seven and a half acres of 12 commercially zoned acres south of the Carmel Valley Road. This construction includes a Safeway market and a Union Oil gas station.

Tuesday the County planning commission, after receiving the Carmel Rancho request, will presumably set a public hearing on the precise zoning of three parcels, now in interim zoning. This land is marked for commercial use in the Carmel Valley Master Plan. The property formerly belonged to Philip Hatton.

Carmel Rancho requests additional precise commercial (C-1) zoning of 11.9 acres and motel-resort hotel-professional office (R-3) zoning for 5.5 acres and 11.4 acres. This land was left in interim

Hudson said he didn't think so. He believes the family would not favor cutting the property in two for a road. It is the T. F. Riley ranch, the pioneer home of the Allan-Hudson-Riley family. Several of the clan still live on the ranch.

Across Highway One from Point Lobos State Park, the ranch comprises meadow and foothill grazing land and a stand of Monterey pine. Scenically, it complements Point Lobos and is appreciated by those who are distressed by the widespread conversion of farm land to subdivision and institutional use on the Monterey Peninsula, and especially in Carmel Valley and down coast.

The Gibson Canyon site in Carmel Highlands has been offered as a gift to the college by the owners, Herman, Andrew and Agnes Marks of Salinas, with the provision that a stand of rare Gowen dwarf cypress and the natural beauty and flora of the area be preserved. Failing access across the Riley Ranch, the college has two other possible but undesirable means of access, from Corona Road through a quiet residential area, and by right of way to Highway One along the floor of steep and wooded Gibson Canyon.

Dr. Weigle has two other sites in mind, one at Riverside and another

Planners Delay Acting On Gas Station Permit To Explore Time Limit

Planning commissioners, perplexed yesterday afternoon by two conflicting reports, postponed until Tuesday any decision on a use permit for a Standard Oil Company service station at the northeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Junipero Street.

After a public hearing last week on this matter commissioners delayed action in order to hear the report of the committee studying a possible zone for gas stations in the business district at the request of the city council.

Yesterday Commissioner Hugh Smith gave this report, compiled by him and the other two committee members, Commissioners Florence Josselyn and J. B. Martin. Their recommendation was that no separate zone for gas stations should be established. Service stations should remain under existing conditions, that is, operate as nonconforming uses in the C-1 and C-1-S commercial zones; be allowed with use permits in C-2 zone blocks on each side of Junipero Street below Third Avenue to half a block above Sixth Avenue.

However, Mr. Smith added, the committee regarded Junipero Street as a potential main entrance to Carmel. Therefore, gas stations were not desirable use of land fronting on this street. Now is the time, he continued, to select uses that will not detract from a future main approach to the city.

The second report came from the land use committee composed of Commissioners Josselyn and George Wilcox. They recommended

The neat name-plate beside the door stated: "Eldon Dedini, Cartoonist-at-Large."

I rang the bell. A very agreeable and affectionate dog named Marcellino opened the door and leaped upon my chest with a shout of pure joy. I gently disengaged the raffish critter and inquired, "Is Mr. Dedini in?"

Marcellino gaily sauntered my face with an agile pink tongue and, being a pointer, took up a classic stance in the doorway with one foot slightly lifted and, with his whole body, pointed toward the interior as if he had just sighted a covey of quivering quail.

Brushing past him, I made my way to the studio where I found Dedini in his thinking position, lying supine on a couch with the book section of the New York Times covering his face, while small, gentle snores reverberated through the room.

Removing the cat, Jane D. Salinger, from a nearby chair, I hitched it closer to the couch, sat down, briskly nudged the prostrate form, and said, "Tell me the story of your life."

The New York Times Book Section slowly slipped down until one inquiring brow eye came into view. The eye traversed the room and came to rest on me with a look of complete despair. Through the intervening pages a muffled voice spoke:

"How can I tell you the story of my life? I'm still busy living it."

I sat tenaciously in my chair through a long silence until it became apparent to the eye peering out at me that I was not to be put off so easily.

With a sigh, Dedini sat up, spilling the papers to the floor.

"If you must know, I was born in King City at an early age."

"Have you always been a cartoonist?" I asked.

"Quit interrupting! How this whole cartoon bit started with me was probably when my mother bought a king-size blackboard to keep me quiet when I was very small—say about four or five years old. It was in the kitchen and I copied the labels on coffee cans, beans, olive oil, things like that. From six to twelve years, there was no direction to my life, no all-pervasive sense of purpose, as it were. Just a lot of marble

BOB ROSBURG NEW CROSBY GOLF CHAMP

Palo Alto's Bob Rosburg used his famous baseball-grip to fashion a steady 282 for the 72-hole Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Invitational Tournament and took home the winner's $5300 bundle. The stocky swinger, never too lucky in the Crosby, put together rounds of 69, 67, 74, and 72 to notch his first win in Bing's Clambake. Dave Ragan's 283 earned him a second place deadlock with Roberto De-Vicenzo and each carted away $2800 of Bing's loot. Gardner

Dickinson, Arnold Palmer, Ted Kroll, and Bill Collins each had 284 blows over the 72-hole grind and their take home pay was $1625.

Wes Ellis and the San Francisco's Olympic Club's Frank Tatum teamed up to win the $300 pro-am best-ball title as they turned in rounds of 63-62-60-63. Tatum was an especially generous helper for Ellis as he helped him 37 strokes while on the way to the championship. Dow Finsterwald and Fred Kramer teamed up with a 254 to earn the second place money. Pebble Beach's Wheeler Farish Jr. helped his pro teammate Tommy Jacobs 41 strokes as they carded a 285 for third place money.

The weather man pulled a big switch in this year's Crosby and came up with four sunshiny days which saw record galleries enjoy the tense exciting play of the 20th Annual Pro-Am Championships. Sunday's final day at Pebble Beach was played with a stiff breeze blowing about the course but the competitors weren't able to use the weather as an alibi.

Saddest pro on the course in Sunday's finale was veteran Ted Kroll who blew to a horrible 81 after taking a four-stroke lead going into the final day's play. Bill Collins was also close to the big money going into the finals but soared to a 75 in Sunday's Pebble Beach test and had to settle for a share of the third place money.

Gallery favorites in the 20th Crosby turned out to be Arnold Palmer, top money winner in 1960, and San Francisco's Ken Venturi, the 1960 Crosby titleholder. Palmer was in good position going into the final day's play but his 75 blows over the Pebble Beach layout couldn't hold off Rosburg's steady par golf. Venturi finished four strokes behind Rosburg and his 286 got him a part of the fifth-place money.

The touring pros now head for San Francisco for a shot at the $56,000 Lucky International go-round at Harding Park. Bing Crosby, too busy to play in his own tournament, will take a go at the pro-am division of the Lucky, teaming up with Doug Sanders for the week's play.

GILROY CAGERS WIN PAIR FROM PADRES

Coach Bob Hagen's Gilroy High varsity slowed down Carmel High's rush to the CCAL B-division basketball crown by edging the Padres, 44 to 41, in last Friday night's crucial tilt at the Carmel High pavilion. The Padres outshot the visitors from the floor, 15 to 12, but the Mustangs were deadly from the free-throw line as they hit on 20 charity tosses.

Carmel's lightweight squad had its two-game win streak cut off by a hustling Gilroy gang which knew it was in a ball game all the way. The Little Padres were finally subdued, 52 to 46, after putting up a terrific battle against the favored Ponies.

Coach Dick Lawitzke's junior-varsity gang salvaged the only win for the Red and Gray as it turned back Robert Louis Stevenson, 33 to 26, in Friday's lid-lifter.

Gilroy's varsity, playing its usual ball-control precision type basketball, took an early lead and kept the slight margin throughout the contest. It was 10-9 at the end of the first quarter; 22-17 at the half; and 31-28 at the end of the third heat. Carmel's Jim Brown topped the Padre scorers with an outstanding 15-point effort and was also a top passer and rebounder for the Red and Gray.

Tallying 19 points off their fast break attack, Jose Eustis sparked the Gilroy lights to their eighth straight win in the limited division of the B-league. Teddy Leidig and Jose Fernandez made determined bids to give the Carmel midgets their third straight league win by hitting for 16 and 12 points respectively. Playing their best game of the season, Jack DeWitt and Steve Johnson played brilliant floor games and were especially effective in the rebound department. Jack added 9 points to the Carmel cause while Steve chipped in with six.

Robert Louis Stevenson was no match for the rangy Carmel junior-varsity which dominated play from the opening whistle. With Jim Kelley again sparking the attack, the Padre jayvees broke to a 10-point bulge at the end of the first half and had a comfortable bulge the rest of the way. Kelley meshed 12 points to lead all scorers and he also excelled as a rebounder. Bob Palma and John Marshall were outstanding floor men, passing for numerous assists and setting up the screens for easy crisp shots.

This Friday night the Padres travel to Morgan Hill for lightweight and varsity action against the Acorns. The Live Oak varsity quintet is holding down third place in the B-league chase and nearly upset the Padres the last time around. The Little Acorns trounced the Padre Babes rather severely in the first meeting but Coach Harold Lippstreu's charges feel they can turn the tables in the rematch. A tremendously improved ball club, the Carmel lights appear to be a tough opponent for any of the limited teams in the CCAL. There is no jayvee game slated for Friday night so the regular starting times will prevail—lightweights 7:00 o'clock and varsity at 8:15.

FISH AND GAME MEETING

The Monterey County Fish and Game Advisory Committee will meet at Pasquales in Soledad on February 1, 8:00 o'clock. Sportsmen's clubs are urged to be at this meeting to make requests for the year, according to Dr. Don L. Caswell, president.

Three Judges Named For High School Poetry Contest

Three members of the Arena Blanca Poets will serve as judges for the high school poetry contest. Olivia Young, president, appointed Catherine Ramsey, Blanche Moke and Bernice Minarik to the judging committee, when the local chapter of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets met last week at the Young home in Pacific Grove. The high school contest, which has a February 1 deadline, is being co-sponsored with the Pine Cone.

The winning student poets will be honored at Area Blanca's guest night meeting to be held February 15 in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library. Cynthia Richardson will be hostess for the evening, and Alma Anderson will be in charge of the student awards.

The Christmas poetry contest for Arena Blanca members, judged by Mrs. Young and Lois Wilson, resulted in the following winners: Mrs. Minarik first place; Mrs. Ramsey, second; Mrs. Moke, third; and Mrs. Richardson, honorable mention.

For last week's program, Mrs. Wilson chose as the theme Language, a Living Thing, illustrating it with a selection of readings, and Alice Erbit read two original poems.

Art On The Peninsula

Paintings by Carolyn Bishop of Carmel Woods will be on display at the Discovery Gallery, 260 Calle Principal, Monterey, through February 9.

Mrs. Bishop met guests at the opening of the show Friday evening. It is her first one-man show. She has exhibited previously in a group show in Oakland and a three-man show of the work of senior students at the University of Missouri where she obtained a bachelor's degree in art, specializing in painting.

Carolyn Bishop moved to Carmel a year and a half ago from Berkeley. She is married to Ben Bishop, also a painter. He had a one-man show at the Discovery Gallery this fall. The Bishops have a daughter, Deborah, one year old.

Hidden Village Art Gallery on Olivier Street, Monterey, is showing the work of local artists and two Dutch contemporary painters, Hans Mulder and Jan Roede. Hours are noon until 5:00 o'clock and 7:00 o'clock until midnight daily except Mondays.

Berenice Fouratt's oil painting, Tired Barn, won first place in the Carmel Craft Studios' juried show last week. Frank Craig took second place with Salinas Valley, a watercolor.

The next Studios show, open to all local artists, will be on February 15.

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

Carmel High School students elected new officers Friday. Bruce Bennett is student body president for the coming semester; Page van Loben Sels, vice president; Jean Roeder, secretary.

Commissioners who will be in office until June are Joy Fehring, publicity; Pam Petersen, social affairs; Mary Lou Thompson, girls' athletics; Tony Dunsford, boys' athletics; Don de Bord, traffic.

and squirrel shooting, grapevine cigar smoking, and fooling around. We spent half our time at my father's cattle ranch near Jolon and the other half in King City so my brother and I could be near school.

"During all this time I drew. I didn't know there was anything but the funny papers until I graduated from grammar school. For a graduation present, an aunt gave me a subscription to Esquire. Naturally I was dazzled by the cartoons, not understanding the gags any better than my aunt did. Esquire being pretty racy in those days. But they were cartoons and I was interested in cartooning so it all figured up in her mind—and in mine.

"I copied them and then started changing them around and then did my own ideas. In high school, I started sending out roughs to the magazines, collected millions of rejection slips, but eventually I sold one to Esquire. Then while I was attending Hartnell College in Salinas, I worked for the Salinas Californian doing editorial and sports cartoons. No pay—but they bought me drawing paper and all the ink I could use. We were tickled with each other but I must admit I got very tired of drawing rodeos and horses and cows.

"On the advice of Leon Amyx of the Hartnell Art Department, I applied for and received a scholarship to Chouinard Art Institute in L.A. Abruptly, I decided to become a painter because everyone else was and I was almost ashamed to be interested in cartoons. But secretly I was hooked on cartoons and got in the habit of making a weekly batch of roughs at night in the broom closet I lived in. Judge and the other small magazines began to buy my stuff and painting was spared another duffer.

"I graduated, got married—to a painting student at Chouinard, name of V. Conroy, she still paints—and had to find a job. I took a portfolio of drawings out to Universal-International Studios, was hired on the spot as a set designer, worked a few days, and then the whole industry went out on strike. I'd have been fired soon anyway. I didn't know what my job was, who the boss was, or anything about set design. I think I was some sort of sketch artist for a picture with Charles Laughton. I remember days of just sitting enthralled watching the shooting, then collecting my check and going home."

There was an extended pause while Dedini thought about the good old days with Laughton. To get the story going again, I hazarded a gambit, "I suppose you ended up at Disney?" I asked.

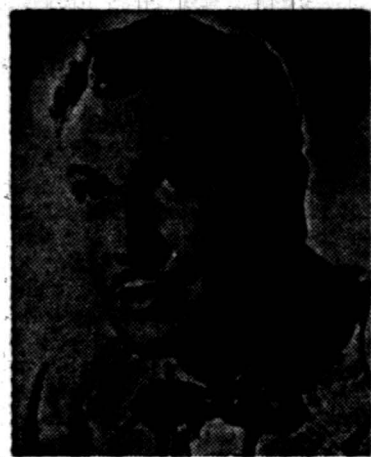

"How can I talk when you keep talking?" Dedini growled. "I went to Disney where I should have gone in the first place and began the happiest two years of my life, working in the story department. During this period I continued nights drawing for Esquire. When the nights began running into the days, I knew something was going to crack. Something did.

"Dave Smart at Esquire called from Chicago asking if I'd quit work for Disney and work under contract for him if he'd pay me twice what I was getting from Disney. I said I'd have to give it a lot of thought. He held the line for four seconds while I gave it a lot of thought, and thus began a long association with Esquire.

"I was one of the gag men—or the only one, I don't know. I sent them 100 roughs a month. On some of these, I finished the drawing, the others were farmed out to other cartoonists.

"Frankly, this deal with Esquire was a dandy one because I had the opportunity to learn everything by doing everything. I did layouts, ideas for calendar girl poses, cover ideas, captions for photographs. I became almost fearless in what I'd tackle.

"After 1950, I was no longer bound by contract and could submit anywhere I wanted. At this same time, we moved to Carmel and built this house. For years, I'd been aiming at the New Yorker and now I began submitting in earnest. The magazine is my main outlet today. Everything I do goes there first before I submit it to any other market. My prime motivation is to do what I consider an 'intelligent' cartoon—an adult

Vincent Price, actor and art authority, will be on stage at the Wharf Theatre and Opera House in Monterey tomorrow evening, 8:30 o'clock, as star of an unusual dramatic entertainment entitled Three American Voices, which will include Tennessee Williams' The Last of My Solid Gold Watches. There will be one performance only of the show.

cartoon, so to speak.

"At present, I am putting the finishing touches on a book of cartoons to be brought out next fall by Harper's under the tentative title of The Dedini Gallery. And that's the story of my life."

Dedini stood up and moved to his drawing board which was hard by a wall on which were tacked dozens of pictures of the great and near-great. Looking down on him were the smiling, autographed faces of Sophia Loren, Brigitte Bardot, Gina Lollabrigida, King Farouk, and Angie Mangiacavallo.

Obviously I was being dismissed but I refused to be dismissed easily. "Who's Angie Mangiacavallo?" I inquired, squirming uneasily as the cat, Jane D. Salinger, sharpened her claws on my leg.

"Well, I'll tell you. My favorite diversion is a loose group of wine lovers on the Peninsula who scout the California wineries testing and buying in bulk and bottling—we have our own label. It has its nutty side, of course, but we are serious students of the grape and when California is thoroughly canvassed, we're going to France. It's a life-time hobby and, as we say, it's not only the wine, it's the people we meet. And that's how I met Angie Mangiacavallo. She's a grape stomper in a winery in Sonoma County."

"Any vices?" I asked, holding Jane D. Salinger gingerly by the scruff of her neck and dropping her into a nearby wastebasket.

"Only opera and jazz records. I like both kinds but lately, I'll have to admit, Duke Ellington and Count Basie seem to be swinging more than Verdi."

"Any problems?"

"Only a constant conspiracy to keep me from meeting my deadlines by foolish interviews and things like that," Dedini said, jabbing his pen into a pot of India ink.

Quietly I backed out of the studio and made my way to the front door where Marcellino awaited me. I paused enroute to stick my head into the nursery of eight month old Giulio Martin Dedini, scion of the menage. He had a blackboard in his playpen and a small pile of tin cans. On the blackboard he was busily copying the labels off cans of coffee, beans, and olive oil.

Berkeley, California,
January 17, 1961

His Excellency, the Governor
Sacramento, California
Your Excellency:

We have been rather disturbed to hear that when a new Governor's Mansion is erected, it is expected that the old Governor's Mansion will be torn down. This would be a misfortune, since the building is considered to be one of the finest examples of late Victorian architecture extant in the State of California. Because the land surrounding the building is of such a small size, very little would be gained by destroying the structure.

The Mansion could be used instead to house a museum, as a library, as a tourist attraction of note, or for various other purposes of importance.

It is hard to conceive this building will not stand as a California landmark, and we as a group wish to go on record as opposing this proposed measure. On behalf of myself and the Action for the Preservation of Period Architecture group, we wish to voice the hope that something other than this might be considered.

Copies of this letter have been sent to various newspapers throughout the State, including the San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, and the Sacramento Bee, etc.

We would be happy to meet with you to discuss alternative measures. I have the honor to remain,

Yours faithfully,
Robert Burton Olson

Mr. Ed DeMars, Secretary,
Monterey County Planning Commission,
Salinas, Calif.

Dear Mr. DeMars:

Yesterday afternoon, as I looked from Point Lobos across the bay toward the Carmel Meadows subdivision, a number of large white houses stood out like sore thumbs in the low sunlight. Other equally large houses painted in neutral or darker colors blended into the landscape inconspicuously.

It occurred to me that in the future planning of the buildings along both sides of Highway One perhaps the Planning Commission could stipulate that white or bright-colored paint should not be

The Cinderella, Oldest Carmel Shop In Newest Building

The first specialty shop ever opened in Carmel began a new chapter in its 50-year history this week by re-opening in a new building.

Mrs. Helen Lightner Dean, owner and manager of the Cinderella Shop, says that to the best of her knowledge no other stores but a few selling groceries and general items were in existence when the late Janet Prentiss came from New England and opened the Cinderella.

The name was chosen by Miss Prentiss, Mrs. Dean recalls, because the founder felt that Carmel itself had truly played the role of magic godmother to her.

Miss Prentiss opened her first used. This would not be a hardship to property owners and would certainly add greatly to the beauty of the highway vistas. I commend this restriction to you for your careful consideration.

Very sincerely,
C. Edward Graves

business next to the present library, then moved across the street. When a fire leveled that structure, Cinderella was moved to its present location on Ocean between San Carlos and Dolores Streets.

But the present-day fashionable shop for women's apparel bears little resemblance to that early business of Miss Prentiss', according to Mrs. Dean, who knew the store's founder well and became friends with her after coming here some 24 years ago from Sacramento and purchasing the shop.

In keeping with the casual ways of early Carmel, the Cinderella began as a women's exchange, offering women's clothing, some of it hand-made by the patrons, and some food items, also home made.

Equally important was the shop's function as a place to meet friends and catch up on the latest local gossip. In this respect the Cinderella was a kind of second Carmel Post Office, but for women only.

Meanwhile, Miss Prentiss began making buying trips to San Francisco, where she stocked up on merchandise she selected for her group of Carmel friends. Through her efforts about this time, the first maternity clothing was brought to Carmel—a notable service indeed.

Later came the day a supplier sent Miss Prentiss a large group of fashions for assignment and they enjoyed huge success with the Cinderella customers. From then on the shop sold dresses only.

The new building, in which the shop opened for public viewing Tuesday, is owned by Mrs. Robert Swanston. An attractive walkway leading from Ocean Avenue to Sixth will be called Cora Belle Lane, in honor of Mrs. Swanston's mother.

"I've loved every minute of my business experience in Carmel," Mrs. Dean says. "It's been a challenge, and will continue to be one. I've especially liked the way Carmel has remained essentially the same, though outwardly changed and enlarged."

Remaining with the Cinderella in its new quarters will be Mrs. Dean's assistants, Engracia Murray and Cecile Hampton Bellick.

FARM MILK DRIVE IN

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Tiersburg

"In books we find relief from trouble, rest after weariness, comfort in distress, and guidance along a dimly lit path." So said a recent newsletter from the Royal Bank of Canada, and thus this column brings you news of comfort, guidance, and rest, through the medium of books. No matter what the weather on the day the paper comes out, today it is overcast with a hint of needed rain, reminding us of the city to the north where such weather is a commonplace thing. So first to San Francisco for two books well worth while.

A woman born in Mexico with a talent for cooking, a love of people, and a delight in serving them good food, such is Elena Zelayata, and blindness did not change these traits which gave her a means of supporting herself. In San Francisco she runs a frozen food business with her two sons, and acts as a restaurant consultant. This is her third book, and this one is only partly about food and mostly about herself, her life story, her conquering of blindness. Its title is Here, Elena.

Only in San Francisco is Herb Caen at his usual post, mainly about San Francisco, but with side trips to other places and in a hurry to get back home again where he loves to live and write. He says, "A San Franciscan thinks of his city as being on the same level as New York, not as being in the same state as Los Angeles."

It was accidental that we had another book by a sightless person, both in the same week, but we have it, and it is a good one. It is called Farewell to Fear and it was written by Toni Keitlen. As the result of an accident, Mrs. Keitlen lost the sight of both eyes. The loss of sight was a long and agonizing process, and it might have been better if some of the details had been omitted from the book, but they are all there, and you may skip them if they distress you. The fight against fear which is the mainstream of the book is inspiring. Mrs. Keitlen now goes abroad, climbs mountains, does photography, skis, plays golf, rides horses, in fact leads an active life just as she did before her blindness.

Not all of George Kiro's book is funny but some of it is. The title is How to Write Ten Different Best Sellers Now in Your Spare Time and Become the First Author on Your Block Unless . . . and there is a lot more but we'll stop there because the book itself is small and we could hardly tell it all in this piece. It is illustrated with zany photographs of the author and the whole thing is pretty crazy. It may give you a chuckle.

There is also a book on Atlantic hurricanes, and another on the small but important country of Laos, and ten or eleven new novels, and more, much more. It seems to us that a wrong thing is the passion to read only books that are new, to read them now, not next week or next month, but right now. Now, now, now. Next week's piece is going to be on old books, good ones, that the library staff has enjoyed.

Editor's Note: Dear Ruth: You might start on the extensive and high quality collection of Civil War books that the library has. Judging by the spate of new Civil War books pouring off the presses one would think it is a subject that has been neglected or inadequately treated.—W.C.

MAGNIFICAT

When sky
Repeats and trees intone,
Magnificat, must man today
Be mute?

II
Survey
With reverence
These vastnesses: sea, sky,
The grasp of man and if you can,
His reach.

III
Now sky
And sea be hushed,
Trees, cease the chant of leaves:
Listen, the count-down of man's song
To space.

—EDITH LODGE

SOUVENIRS

Of course, I have many souvenirs,
In drawers and closets and on shelves,
Gathered from innumerable spheres
That gave me something of themselves,
At fairs and on vacation trips
In planes and motor cars and ships.

But others have their signatures
Printed upon my heart and soul
Regrets for which there are no cures,
Old loves, and a sought but unwon goal.

In every atom of my flesh,
Collected by the ear and eye,
Are souvenirs from the ambient mesh
Of earth and waterways and sky.
Starry tinsel, ribbons of cloud,
Petals from a world of vivid blooms,
With rivery, avian and wind song, crowd
Into a million cellular rooms;
And though they are not for touch and seeing,
They flow with breath and suffuse all being.

—LORI PETRI

GOLDEN GATE SUNSET

When the fish dog rocks wear veins from the sun
And the western fire orange fills the Golden Gate
Touching with its peeling the feet of Tamalpais,
Gray birds on straw stilts run in formation,
And lemon bubbles flicker along miles of pink sand.
Yellow manes of surf roll between rosy troughs,
And wisps of blue smoke bear steak incense from driftwood.
There are changes that do not come from old truths,
Ancient verities in and out of favor,
And there are truths that do not lose momentum,
Even as sunsets light far far beyond Seal Rocks.

—ARTHUR ROY WAGNER

Circle To Present Pulitzer Prize Play Look Homeward Angel

At the Golden Bough Circle Theatre on February 3, the Pulitzer Prize play, Look Homeward Angel, opens under the direction of Frederick Rider.

The play, derived by Ketti Frings from Thomas Wolfe's autobiographical novel of the same name, had a phenomenal success in New York from November 1957 to April 1959. In addition to the Pulitzer Prize, it also won the New York Drama Critics Award as the best play of its first season.

Set in Altamont—Wolfe's thin disguise for his home town of Asheville, North Carolina—the play encompasses several emotion-charged weeks in the life of seventeen-year-old Eugene Gant (Wolfe's name for his self-portrait). The Gants, a family filled with intolerance of each other's weaknesses, are never-the-less locked together by unyielding bonds, and the play relates the crisis of a violent split in their ties. The young dreaming colt's first love affair, his relationship with his warring parents, the death of his beloved brother and his eventual departure for college make up the play's plot.

Author Frings' feat of compression in reducing Wolfe's unwieldy novel to a tightly constructed play has had its parallel in recent weeks as director Rider and designer Ruth Jordan Allan have worked out a method of presenting the sprawling saga, with its nineteen characters, on the arena stage of the Golden Bough. In devising the setting, which includes both the interior and exterior of the Gant's southern boarding-house as well as the stone-cutter's yard where Eugene's father broods over the marble angel he has never been able to copy, designer Allan has had the assistance of Charles Thomas, Carmel artist and former director of the Circle Theatre.

Following an opening night performance for the benefit of the York School Auxiliary, the play will have a run of at least six weekends.

Next Subject For Enquiry Classes "Why Choose Peter?"

The subject for all sermons at Carmel Mission Basilica on Sunday will be Salvation. The preacher will be the Reverend Walter Anthony, C.S.F. He will introduce the Sunday Mass Mission to the Basilica parish and present mission topics at all Masses for the four Sundays following this one.

Father Anthony, a Paulist missionary, is also conducting four Enquiry Classes at the Mission each week on Mondays and Tuesdays. Subjects under discussion next week will be: Why Did Christ Choose Peter Head of His Church and The Bible and Science—Are They Contradictory?

The public is invited at no cost or obligation.

Hallsted - Bailey's Images Of Love Was A Labor Of Love, And Gallant

By VIRGINIA SEAY

Maria Hallsted and Richard Bailey, whose considerable acting and (in Mr. Bailey's case) directing talents have contributed to some of the Peninsula's most interesting and creative theatre during the past few years, appeared last Friday and Saturday nights at Sunset Auditorium in a dramatic recital called Images of Love.

It was a bold and varied performance, but, like many solo recitals, fearfully ambitious; the demands it placed on both actors and audience were heavy indeed. As each has in the past, Maria Hallsted and Mr. Bailey proved to be versatile and imaginative performers, but the material they selected and adapted for Images of Love related only vaguely to the normal theme, and in some cases, lacked any particular appropriateness or dramatic value.

By far the most absorbing and successful segment of the seven-part program was a complete one-act drama by the Belgian playwright, Michel de Ghelderode called Ecureuil, a strange little fantasy in which Mr. Bailey played a mad king and Miss Hallsted a tormented jester. It was the sort of offbeat, expressive material in which Mr. Bailey has so particularly distinguished himself, and both he and his actress wife gave it a vividly effective performance.

We could have wished they had selected more dialogue pieces rather than alternating solo turns; their only other dramatic collaboration was in the final "Image," a tedious thing of Chekov's called Swan Song; what might have been a happier duet (and a light touch as well), an episode from Schmitz's La Ronde, was deleted due to time limitation.

Miss Hallsted's commanding presence and voice and her unfortunate and gallant one at that.

denable dramatic style appeared to good advantage in a moving narrative from Stephen Vincent Benet's John Brown's Body and an impassioned reading from Racine's Phedre, but her interpretations of three Shakespeare heroines—Juliet, Portia, and Kate—left much to be desired. Mr. Bailey revealed another aspect of his talents in a Marceau-like mime entitled Free of Life, and also enticed a speech from Richard II with youthful assurance but not much else.

The production was simply and skilfully staged with the assistance of Ted Weston on lighting and Carlin Arrocha on music and sound. Miss Hallsted designed the quite striking costumes worn by herself and her husband, Dorothy Weston, Mimi Hennessey and Jerry May's also assisted in the production.

The two performances were unfortunately handicapped by both time and place: any one of the Peninsula's small theatres would have provided a more congenial, intimate atmosphere than cavernous Sunset, and surely any weekend but that of the Crosby Tournament might have yielded larger audiences. But in any case, Images of Love was clearly a labor of love, and a gallant one at that.

Fourth in the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association series will be the Zachary Solov Ballet Ensemble, appearing at the Pacific Grove High School on Monday evening, at 8:15 o'clock.

The troupe consists of ten dancers, including Frank Bourman, known on the Peninsula for his work with the Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet.

He was appointed choreographer of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet in 1951 and in this position was awarded the first annual Capozio Dance Award.

Irina Bogowska, ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will head the company.

Heading the male contingent will be Michael Manile, who has been a principal dancer with the New York City Ballet, leaving their company to tour the U.S., South America and Japan with Denilova. For two years he was the leading dancer of the Metropolitan Opera under the direction of Solov, and has appeared as guest artist with London's Festival Ballet.

Two pianists, Charles Magman and Robert Phillips, accompany the troupe, with Mr. Magman as musical director.

The program to be presented is made up of four works: Cher Tschellowsky, Olympus, Invitation to the Dance, and Allegresse. Admission to the concert is limited to members, and to members of other community concert associations on a space available basis.

Dr. Parker, a native of Bucharest, received his degree of doctor of political and economic sciences from the University of Bucharest, Harvard University awarded him a Ph.D. degree in 1952, and he taught there for four years before coming to the University of California in 1956. During this time he served as research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the Center for International Studies.

The annual Award Ball of the Arthur Murray Dance Studio, given in aid of the March of Dimes, will be held on February 5 at the San Carlos Hotel, according to Martin Moore, licensee of the local Arthur Murray Studio.

MARCH OF DIMES BALL

Jehovah's Witnesses To Hold Assembly In Watsonville, Feb. 17

Watchtower officials have chosen the Santa Cruz County Fairgrounds at Watsonville as the site for a February 17-19 circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in California Circuit No. 11, it was announced this week by Henry Nordstrom, presiding minister of the Monterey congregation. A similar gathering was held there January 29-31, 1960.

Delegates from the 23 congregations between Menlo Park and Atascadero have been invited to attend. An audience of 2,200 is expected on Sunday to hear Lester M. Dugan, district supervisor on the west coast, deliver the key address, Is God Interested In the Affairs of Men? He will be featured on each day's program.

Be Taught By Jehovah, will be the theme of the entire convention, according to Nordstrom, who said sessions will begin at 6:43 o'clock Friday evening and conclude at 6:00 o'clock Sunday evening. He pointed out that such assemblies are held semi-annually to advance Christian Bible education. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will include Bible talks, discussions and demonstrations to better equip the delegates in carrying out their ministry.

Francis Goetz of Monterey and William Lange of Carmel were among 45 attending an organizational meeting in San Jose, January 9, presided over by circuit director of ministers Vasil Sekela Jr. and convention manager Clair Alvarez of Santa Clara. Arrangements were made to set up the more than 20 departments needed to assure an efficient and enjoyable gathering. A number of local Witnesses will help man these departments without charge.

Sekela, who formerly served the congregations around Sacramento, took over his present duties last September 12 when Alvyn Franck was transferred to the Lake Tahoe area.

A mass baptism of new ministers will take place on Saturday afternoon.

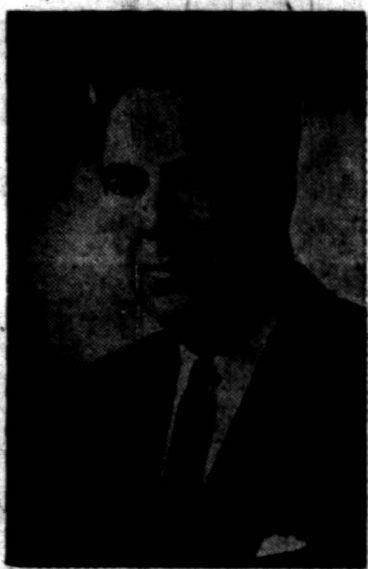

WINTER LECTURE FRIDAY

Monterey Peninsula College announces that the second in a series of three talks on the United States and the U.S.S.R. by William Winter, news analyst, will be held tomorrow evening, 8:00 o'clock, in the Armory on the campus instead of the library lecture hall as previously announced.

Attendance at last week's Critique III lecture by Mr. Winter was so large that a change of meeting place became necessary.

Mrs. Smith Returns For Winter

Mrs. Florence Blake Smith of Story, Wyoming, has returned to Carmel again this year. Last year she went to Europe instead of coming here for the winter months. Her home is in the Big Horn Mountains near Sheridan, Wyoming, and she is a free lance reporter for the Sheridan Press.

The healing power of the Christ, Truth, in present experience will be the theme of a free public lecture to be given here on Tuesday evening by Ralph W. Cessna of Chicago.

Mr. Cessna, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel in the church edifice, Monte Verde Street near Sixth Avenue at 8:00 o'clock. His subject will be Christian Science: The Way To Understanding, Happiness and Healing.

A former newspaperman, Mr. Cessna was born in Battle Creek, Michigan. He worked on newspapers in Michigan and Florida before joining The Christian Science Monitor in 1929. During World War II he was a captain in the United States Army and was a panel chairman with the War Labor Board in the Chicago area. He entered the public practice of Christian Science in 1947. He became an authorized teacher of Christian Science in 1952.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Continuous benefits are available to all through a fuller comprehension of God as Love. This idea will be enlarged upon at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love"

Readings from the Bible will include this selection from 1 John (4:9): "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him."

The closing citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (6:17-18): "God is Love. More than this we cannot ask, higher we cannot look, farther we cannot go."

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah (9:24): "Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise lovingkindness, judgment, and righteousness in the earth."

The Board of Supervisors on Monday voted against joining the Monterey County Co-operative Council composed of council and administrative staff representatives from cities within the county; Carmel councilman Gunnar Norberg, chairman. Only supervisors in favor of joining the council were Chairman Tom Hudson and Burt Talcott.

Nice to think about: Ninety-five pines and five oaks were planted in the city in 1960, Robert Strum reported at the January meeting of the Carmel Forestry Commission.

Monday Superior Court Judge Anthony Brazil will impanel the 1961 Grand Jury of 19 members from 30 names, submitted by Judge Brazil and Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson. These include Dr. Robert H. Aurner, Byron B. Blout, F. Payne Dearing and Mrs. Geraldine Smith of Carmel area.

All schools in the Carmel Unified School District will be closed until Monday morning. The end-of-semester holiday started yesterday afternoon following final examinations. Classes continued at Christmas time longer than in other Peninsula districts to provide this long week-end vacation.

From Mrs. Eleanor Parsons Baylis of San Bernardino comes the following clipping from Place in the Sun, a column written by Chuck and Virginia Perlee. The former is editor and music critic of the San Bernardino Sun.

"Chuck is always happy when the mail clerk gives him his copy of the Carmel Pine Cone Monday mornings. The Pine Cone is printed with pine-scented ink. And it always reminds him of the deep woods."

And we thought nobody noticed!

We have a letter addressed this way:

Pine Cone
Pacificia, Carmel
California

It contains some publicity about an affair going on in Oakland that has no local interest.

Both our friends and those who can't stand the sight of us but keep on reading us just the same will be amused at the incongruity of Pacifica in connection with the Pine Cone, even as an erroneous address.

Bids will be opened February 15 in Sacramento for construction of bridge approaches and a reinforced concrete bridge to be constructed at Villa Creek, 23 miles north of San Simeon on Highway One.

Kenneth Matthews announces he is resuming his conditioning classes for men and women. They will be held Wednesday evening, 7:00-7:30 o'clock, in Carmel High School gymnasium under the school district's recreation program. Volleyball may be played after class by those attending the conditioning sessions.

Mr. Matthews taught similar classes at Sunset School two years ago.

Former Carmelite Carlos Dieguez writes from Berkeley:

"Being like any one else that has known Carmel with its charm and its ever friendly people, I do not forget it. I was as always in cases of this nature extremely amused by the item I am enclosing, which as you will note appeared in the Berkeley Daily Gazette of January 5, 1961. It occurs to me, that perhaps you too will find same as ridiculous as I did."

The item:

"Now know what happens to some of those little old ladies, a couple of San Francisco columnists are fond of mentioning now and then... Have it from a most re-

Junipero Serra Mothers' Club will hold their sixth annual potluck luncheon and fashion show at Crespi Hall on February 2 from 12:30-3:30 o'clock. Seated above, left to right, are Mrs. Tony Klepich, in charge of food for the event; Mrs. Joseph Manestar, decorating; Mrs. William Clark, reservations; Mrs. George Haltimer, serving. Standing is Mrs. Peter Delfino who is fashion show committee chairman. Not in the picture is Mrs. Joseph Mangini who heads the clean-up committee.

Raggetts Go To Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett and their son, Jon, leave a week from tomorrow for a month in Mexico. They will drive down the West coast then inland to Guadalajara to take a plane for Puerto Vallarta and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vial of Carmel who are spending a month in the sea coast town.

Acapulco and Mexico City are included in the Raggetts' itinerary, also tentative plans to drive home the inland route through Texas. While they are away their home will be occupied by friends from out of town.

Brewer Gets C.D. Appointment

Jackson D. Brewer has been appointed to the position of associate planner for the California Disaster Office.

Brewer, resident of Carmel, will work closely with Sacramento headquarters and the CD Region 2 in Walnut Creek. His planning of civil defense activities, however, will take him all over the state.

Born in Berkeley, he received his B.A. in political science from the University of California in 1955. He also holds a Master's Degree in business administration from Stanford University.

Brewer is known throughout Monterey County for his public relations activities.

Magenheimer Deck Party

Although the home that Mr. and Mrs. Carol Magenheimer are building in Pebble Beach is still under construction, the deck of the house, which overlooks the golf course was used for a luncheon party on Sunday. The Magenheimers' guests, by means of field glasses and transistor radios, were able to follow Crosby Tournament play on the greens and fairways.

Steven Rochester Second Child

Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Carl Rochester now have a boy liable local source that some of them retire to Carmel... The Berkeleyan, who is a shell collector and spends a lot of her time on the Carmel beach, knows a couple of them quite well... Old enough so we wouldn't want to guess at their ages, the little old ladies go for an ocean swim nearly every day, regardless of the weather... And, do you know, sometimes they don't wear their bathing suits!... Ah, that's Carmel!

and a girl in their family. Steven Carl, their son, was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on January 3. His birth weight was seven pounds, five ounces. The Rochester's daughter, Marianne, is six years old.

Steven Carl's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Rochester of Madison, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Robinson of Apple Valley. His father is a student in the science and line school at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

No Visitors For Mrs. Short

Mrs. Marie Short is a patient in the Peninsula Community Hospital Annex recuperating from a coronary attack. Only members of her family are permitted to see her. Friends are requested to send notes instead of visiting her until she is recovered sufficiently enough to entertain callers.

State Life Meetings Here

The California managers of The State Life Insurance Company of Indianapolis, are holding their regional meeting at Pine Inn tomorrow.

The program theme will stress Selling Success in the 1960s. The entire meeting is under the direction and supervision of Tom Brown of Tom Brown Insurance Associates, the Carmel agency that serves Monterey, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties.

Santa Maria Passenger

Mrs. Grace Howden is particularly interested in the pirating of the Santa Maria. She was a passenger on the ship several years ago on a crossing from Portugal to Venezuela while on a trip around the world. The same officers are on the ship now, Mrs. Howden reports.

ROBINSON JEFFERS ILL

At 5:48 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the Carmel Red Cross Ambulance answered a call from Tor House and took Robinson Jeffers to the Monterey Hospital. There were no vacant rooms at the Community Hospital in Carmel.

The poet's condition is not critical according to Mrs. Donnan Jeffers, his daughter-in-law.

AMBULANCE CALL

The Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Volunteer Fire department answered a call to Pine Inn this morning at 11:22 o'clock and took Mrs. Roberta Lane, Lynden, Washington, to the Peninsula Community Hospital. She had fallen and injured a hip.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary-Lindsay Oliver

Calvin Arnason, thirteen year old boy pianist, was presented by the Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach last Sunday evening to an audience of the school boys and prominent musical people who filled Douglas Hall. The exploits of a child musical prodigy are always amazingly interesting. Calvin showed not only a striking talent but a strength, facility and accuracy that belied his only six years of training, the last four under Robert Vetteson, and as a first year high school scholar in science and mathematics at his home in Milbrae, his practise time must necessarily be limited, yet he gave a program of classics that would have filled the bill of an experienced concert artist.

In his exuberance, his tone often became harsh and forced and an excessive speed overwhelmed possible expression, yet the well known Bach, Schubert, and Chopin pieces received surprisingly comprehensive renditions, particularly in continuity, rhythm and balanced dynamics with a sense of melodic prominence, though not, as yet, a real "singing" tone in the Chopin Fantasia and Scherzo in B flat minor.

His best modulations were in the Rachmaninoff Prelude, added as encore in which he was perfectly at home, and if one soft slow movement had been included it would have been the greater test of music insight; but undoubtedly the boy has a phenomenal mental grip and if not over-exploited, will become an exceptional artist. Physically Calvin is of a robust and sturdy stature looking older than his years. He has concerts in Honolulu and other places this summer, but we hope, like Hoffman, who at the same age was taken entirely off the concert platform until he grew up, which prevented the stunting of buds for later flowering and proved its wisdom in his later power, that early exploitation of this boy will be sufficiently curtailed. Appreciation goes to Mr. Rickles and the Stevenson School for giving opportunity to hear this gifted boy who used a Mason and Hamlin piano lent by Colonel and Mrs. Philip Schneeberger and Mrs. Edith Love.

Planners Delay Action On Gas Station Permit

granting a use permit for the Standard Oil Company station with frontage on Junipero Street.

Commissioner Fred Keeble questioned both reports. He insisted that more study should be given to possible establishment of a separate zone for gas stations as requested by the city council. He also wanted to investigate the possibility of putting a time limit on any use permit for a gas station in C-2 zone.

"It is not a case of whether we want gas stations on Junipero Street or not, but that if there is no other zone we must have them there," he emphasized, asking for more study on the city council request. "We should spend every minute we can discussing the instruction of the city council," he concluded.

After the land use committee report Mr. Keeble asked, "Is it feasible to consider a legal time limit on the use permit?"

He was assured by City Attorney John Morse that this was possible if the time limit was of reasonable length. Time should be allowed to amortize improvements on any property, and the use permit should be subject to renewal for this purpose.

Chairman Blanks pointed out two courses that commissioners could follow: either act on the land use report and grant or deny the Standard Oil Company request; or continue the matter for further study.

Commissioner George Willox moved that the matter be continued until Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock.

Commissioner Smith's report on the separate gas station zone continued the following findings: There is no shortage of gas stations in Carmel; there is evidence that oil companies are still interested in establishing new stations; new stations tend to congregate near existing stations; new stations seem to need more open space for tanks, trucks and auto parking; the city should control space, area and sales of stations.

Recommendations in the report were for use permits for new stations, all new stations should go in C-2 zone and that the city should purchase older gas stations for public parking lots as they are easily adapted and strategically located for such use.

Mr. Smith also reported a likelihood that gas stations will tend to amortize themselves because they become obsolete in relation to modern stations.

During discussion on a possible time limit for the Standard Oil Company station at Junipero and Fourth, Chairman Blanks ascertained from a Standard Oil Company representative that the company's proposed lease from Anita Doud of the property in this location was for 15 years with a five years renewal clause.

The land use committee report favoring granting a use permit for the station stated that it in no way conflicted with provisions for a use permit under the zoning law and objections to the station at the public hearing were trivial.

zoning until development indicated what precise zoning would be required.

Two reasons are given by Carmel Rancho Inc. for the zoning request at this time. All utilities at the shopping center are underground. Plans for future development also will include this type of installation. Sewers for any future development must be planned. If the acreage is now zoned as requested by Carmel Rancho Inc. roadways will not have to be torn up later to provide these services. In addition, adequate parking space planning may be undertaken for a motel, already requested in Carmel Rancho development.

The relation of parking and landscaped open space in present development is one acre of buildings to the seven and a half acre site.

The land affected by the zoning request is adjacent to the present Rancho Carmel site, north of Los Gallos apartments and east of the proposed Rio Road extension.

other at Santa Fe, New Mexico, he told Highlands neighbors who were guests at a dinner party in his honor Thursday night, given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stewart.

Construction of the college would be financed by donations, and "get under way sooner if the money were raised locally," according to Leavitt, who heads a local committee interested in bringing the college to the Monterey Peninsula.

Final decision on site rests with the college board of directors in the east who meet February 22.

Owners Petition Business Use For 19 Residence Lots

the north side of Ocean to Camino Real thence north along Camino Real to Fourth Avenue.

All property owners within these boundaries will be informed of the rezoning by the persons petitioning rezoning. If owners of 50 percent or more of the land in zone of interest sign a petition, a public hearing on the matter will be set by the planning commission.

This is the second request for rezoning residence land to commercial use to come before the commission this year. Last week commissioners denied the request of Willard Neumann to rezone property at the east side of the business zone from residential to residential apartment use. Mr. Neumann is appealing this decision to the city council.

Sitting as board of adjustments yesterday, the planning commission denied application for floodlighting of buildings at Carmel Plaza and for the Arcade development that James Doud will construct on the South side of Ocean Avenue below San Carlos Street. They allowed floodlighting of trees hidden from the street at Dolores Lodge.

Building permits were granted by commissioners to Mr. Doud for his Ocean Avenue arcade development through to the Craft Studios; to Robert Little and Dr. Dexter Whitcomb to remodel their building at the northeast corner of San Carlos and Fifth for the June Simpson Restaurant; to L. W. Jorgenson for a two-story building to contain two stores and five offices on Ocean Avenue between Blum's and Jolly Roger restaurants.

Time extensions of 90 days were granted to the Carmel Plaza for a parking garage; to J. M. Scales for two-unit apartment building.

Commissioners authorized the city attorney to draw up a resolution for new procedure for processing business district building plans in accordance with the new zoning ordinance.

Plans will be given to the building inspector for certification, then to the design review committee. This group will send plans to the design review board which will be the planning commission. Mr. Blanks appointed Commissioners Dorothy von Meier, Fred Keeble and George Willox as members of the design review committee.

A letter was received from Joseph Frame protesting the length of time it now takes to process signs which must come to the planning commission for review. Mr. Frame, who operates a sign business, maintains that 30 days between meetings is a hardship to him.

TWO HIGHWAY 1 ACCIDENTS

Carmel persons were injured in two highway 1 automobile accidents Wednesday.

At 11:45 in the morning, Helen Jacobs of Nevada, driving south on Highway 1 made a left turn at the Second Street gate, Fort Ord.

Helen Gruber of Hatton Fields, Carmel, was driving north. The cars collided and both drivers were taken to the Fort Ord Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

At 2:55 in the afternoon Wayne Smith of Castro Valley and Kaspar Wespi of Carmel were driving
